Marless, Models & More!

When it comes to oil painting, Marless Fellows is literally living and breathing her artwork seven days a week at the Arizona Fine Art EXPO. Last weekend, she excitedly painted Tokyo-based, fellow artist, Mami Takahashi, in her traditional Japanese Kimono.

Marless has a passion for creating paintings that gives her viewers a strong sense of form, texture and color. She conveys a story within all her paintings, even if the story is simply all about beauty. Her subject matter varies and most often have a western flair due to her love of the southwest. Painting Mami has been her most recent fun and exciting challenge.

After raising her family, Marless now has the time to pursue her painting career and loves the fact that it's a wonderful dream come true – 74 days straight at the Arizona Fine Art EXPO!

Marless Fellows will be painting another model, Rebecca Jones, from life on Saturday, February 28th, beginning at 10am and ending at 3:00pm. Rebecca, renowned model, resides in Wickenburg, Arizona and awaits her special day with Marless.

This event combines the aspects of a juried fine art festival, the elements of a gallery, inner-workings of an artist's studio, a spectacular two-acre Sculpture Garden and an art Mecca for the serious art collectors. The result is a unique celebration of fine art that functions as an educational tool for the children, adults and art enthusiasts.

Marless can be seen painting away in studio #21.
